PC Desktops

PC Desktops come with a monitor, mouse, cords and keyboard as needed.

34. How many desktop computers do you need for your clients?

35. How many computers will you need monitors, keyboards, and mice for?

36. Operating System Details - Windows not available

Free Geek is not able to provide computers with Windows for individuals. Instead the computers will come with Linux Mint (LinuxMint.com), a free and open-source operating system, installed. Linux Mint runs well on older and current PCs and works with most printers, scanners, cameras, etc. It also comes with free alternatives to for-profit software, such as LibreOffice in place of Microsoft Office, and GIMP that performs many of the same functions as Photoshop. Google Drive's online office suite performs similar functions to Microsoft Office and also runs well on Linux. You are free to do whatever you'd like with your granted PCs, including installing another operating system like Windows. However, Free Geek is unable to assist with Windows installation or provide any software support for Windows.

Mark only one oval.

- Linux Mint will work for our needs
- We will install Windows ourselves and understand that no software support is available
- Not applicable as we are not requesting PCs
- Other: _____

iMacs may be available when needed for accessibility reasons

If your client(s) have accessibility needs and require the assistive technology that Macs provide, Free Geek may consider granting iMacs (Apple all-in-one desktops) instead of PCs. Please note that Mac laptops are not available.

37. How many iMac computers do you need for your clients?

38. Please explain what assistive technology from Macs is needed for your clients

Due to limited resources, iMacs are only when inventory allows and when assistive technology is needed to support an accessibility need such as a screen reader or language requirement. Please explain in detail why an iMac is needed for your client(s).

39. Do your clients need a web camera or any other special equipment to fulfill their telecommuting needs? Please explain

Free Geek's capacity to grant special equipment is dependent on inventory. Please specify which types of devices and how many are needed. Including links to product pages is helpful.

40. Please share any specialized software your clients plan to run *

Please review the programs and applications your clients plan to use on any granted devices. Please share minimum system specifications and the website address of any specialized software to help us meet your clients' needs as closely as possible.

41. Do you have a time-sensitive request?

Example: January 7, 2019

42. If Free Geek cannot meet the requested date, would this affect your need for the grant?

Please explain the time-sensitivity of your request (e.g., are the requested devices needed for an event)
